

About Founder

Born into a Dhobi family in Then Nerkunam, Tindivanam, Tamil Nadu, Juliyes faced caste-based discrimination and poverty from a young age. Her family washed clothes for Dalit households, often receiving food as payment. She endured humiliation at school and developed migraines, forcing her to leave after 8th grade.

Determined to rise above her circumstances, she pursued tailoring, gaining respect across castes for her skill. She began teaching tailoring to village girls and offered free evening classes to children of all backgrounds.

In 2009, driven by her own struggles and triumphs, Juliyes founded the Learning and Empowerment Centre (LEC). Today, LET supports students, youth, and families across 25 villages through education, counseling, and economic development.

About Trust

It is a Charitable Trust registered under the Indian Trust Act, 1961 with the district registrar of Acharapakkam under Reg No. 16/2024, dated June 26, 2024. Juliyes Vanathaian is the Founder and the Director of the Trust All donations to Life Empowerment Trust are Tax-Exempt Under Section 80G. We serve for the welfare of the underprivileged communities irrespective of caste, colour, creed, language and religion.

Education of the Children

Life Empowerment Trust runs weekend tuition centers where children from nearby villages receive special coaching in English, Mathematics, and Science. Most of these children are first-generation learners from Dalit and tribal families, often deprived of proper schooling. With the support of volunteer teachers, they not only learn academic subjects but also develop good habits, manners, and life skills. Nutritious meals are provided to overcome malnutrition, and the center becomes a safe space for completing homework and assignments. Currently, 200 children from 25 villages benefit from this program.

Empowerment of Widows

Widows and destitute women often face social stigma and economic hardship. Life Empowerment Trust provides relief support and vocational training to help them regain dignity and independence. Through tailoring, handicrafts, and other skill-building programs, women are empowered to earn a livelihood and support their families. Emotional support and counseling are also offered, ensuring they feel valued and included in society.

Elderly Care

Many elderly individuals are abandoned or left without support. At Life Empowerment Trust, they receive shelter, food, medical care, and companionship. The program ensures that elders live with dignity and respect, surrounded by a caring community. By addressing both physical and emotional needs, the trust provides a safe haven where the elderly feel loved and secure.

Self-Sustenance Programs

To break cycles of poverty, Life Empowerment Trust offers tailoring training and other vocational programs. Women and youth learn practical skills such as blouse and saree stitching, modern tailoring, and entrepreneurship basics. These programs enable participants to achieve financial independence and self-reliance, transforming their lives and uplifting entire families.

Cultural and Youth Leadership Training

Education is not complete without cultural identity and confidence. The trust organizes cultural training sessions in music, dance, drama, and personality development. These activities nurture creativity, leadership, and community pride among children and youth. By celebrating traditions and encouraging self-expression, the program builds confidence and inclusivity, preparing young people to lead with courage and creativity.
